

"Coming together is the beginning, keeping together is the progress, working together is the success." - The Marzilli's

1972 - Angelo Sr & Christina Marzilli

Angelo & Christina immigrated to Toronto when they were young, as their parents sought a better life than offered by their Southern Italian village of Campobasso, one of the coldest areas of the country with frequent snowfalls, which certainly prepared them for the Canadian climate.

Speaking no English, Angelo spent six months at a Toronto school before joining the furniture industry at age sixteen to focus on his creative strengths developing the skills of a master upholsterer. When Christina & Angelo met, the two began immediately visualizing, planning & implementing their future together! With a goal of creating an upholstery manufacturing company using Angelo's craftsmanship & Christina's skills in design, merchandising & accounting.

As the business grew, it became a family affair. Raised in the business, their daughter, Natalie, was born in 1973, son Angelo JR in 1975.

1979 - Angelo JR Assisting in frame making

"Growing up we were always part of Decor-Rest, as that's where our playpens in the boardroom. Later we brought our books & home work to what became, after work hours, the family's pleasant living & dining room, everyone talking & enjoying one another's company." - Natalie

TODAY - The factory is abandoned & remains a popular destination for urban photographers

JANUARY 1976

Decor-Rest was growing faster than expected so an expansion was required for the factory to function better, renting a new space on 99 Floral Parkway, Toronto, ON.

JANUARY 1980

Angelo & Christina's management skills sharpened, they reinvested their profits in the company, lived a modest life, watched pennies & overheads, always waited until they could afford the next move.

The Marzilli's fulfilled their ambition to finally buy a factory not rent, & Decor-Rest's next corporate home relocated to 17 Milvan Dr, Toronto, ON.
